I like fifth grade because I have so many friends. When I get to sixth grade, I want to know the name of everyone in my class. And the ones I don't know yet, I can make friends with them.

It's good to have a lot of friends because then if you forgot something, you can just ask and they'll share. Like if they have extra pencils, extra paper, stuff like that. But you have to know who has the extra stuff so you know who to ask.

There's one more thing I don't know about sixth grade. Sometimes I get a stomachache or I feel a little bit sick. But I don't like to go to the nurse's office.

Nobody does! I want there to be a way to just ask the nurse a question without leaving class.
